Give to a local child in need with Tony's Metro Magic 2019

Our 10th annual toy drive, Tony's Métro Magic, has kicked off for the 2019 holiday season! Here's how you can bring cheer to local kids this year.

We are so grateful for our loyal readers, and the kindness they've shown over the years by participating in our annual holiday toy drive, Tony's Metro Magic. We hope to keep the holiday cheer going strong this year, as we mark the toy drive's 10th anniversary.

Our late Editor-in-Chief Tony Metcalf oversaw the project for more than four years before his passing in 2013. Since then, Metro has continued the tradition of Tony's Metro Magic as a way to bring joy to underprivileged kids in our community.

This year's toy drive runs through mid-December to allow time for items to be distributed before the holidays. Metro has created a wish list that readers can access by going to metro.us/magic. Gifts range from $3.99 and up. Diapers, coats, bedding and other essential items are also available for purchase.

This year, items will be directly delivered to the local charities we've partnered with in our Metro cities (New York, Boston and Philadelphia). For those donating in New York, items will go directly to the Coalition For The Homeless, then distributed to local children. Boston's Heading Home Inc. will receive the items, and Philadelphia's donations will go to the

If you wish to donate, you may visit our website, choose items and pay online using Target's secure payment system. Your gifts, along with your name attached, will be automatically delivered to the charities' collection locations.

"The magic and the joy that toy donations bring to our families in need here at Heading Home during such a critical time of year is indescribable," said Martha Buckley, Director of Development for Heading Home. "Each year we support over 700 children in our shelter programs and the ability to provide each of them with the dignity of special, new holiday gifts is a reminder to them and their families that there is a community of people around them who see them and who care. The lasting impact of your generosity extends far beyond the holiday season and brings so much joy to local families in need. Heading Home sincerely thanks all of you for the many years of support each holiday season!

Metro thanks readers in advance for remembering children who will spend the holidays in shelters or who may not have presents to open. Even one small gift can make a big difference in a child's holiday season.

Former New York Mayor Bloomberg enters 2020 Democratic presidential race

Bloomberg will likely offer moderate policies.

Billionaire businessman Michael Bloomberg, the former mayor of New York City, jumped into the U.S. presidential race on Sunday, adding another moderate voice to a crowded field of Democratic contenders seeking to face Republican President Donald Trump in the November 2020 election.

The move represents an about-face for Bloomberg, 77, who had said in March that he would not make a run for the White

"I'm running for president to defeat Donald Trump and rebuild America. We cannot afford four more years of President Trump's reckless and un-ethical actions," Bloomberg, who founded prominent media company Bloomberg LP and serves as its chief executive, said in a statement on his campaign website.

Ranked by Forbes as the eighth-richest American with an estimated worth of $53.4 billion, Bloomberg will have the advantage of being able to self-finance his campaign and pour millions of dollars into advertising and hiring staff.

Bloomberg's candidacy presents a late challenge to the pack of Democratic contenders near the top in opinion polls - fellow centrists Joe Biden, the former U.S. vice president, and Pete Buttigieg, the mayor of South Bend, Indiana, and prominent liberal U.S. Senators Elizabeth Warren and Bernie Sanders.

Bloomberg has been critical of anti-Wall Street crusader Warren and her plan to tax the super wealthy to pay for programs ranging from universal healthcare to free college tuition. He will compete with Biden and Buttigieg to become the moderate alternative to the liberal agendas of Warren and Sanders.

He has won allies in the party with his advocacy and philanthropy on climate change and in fighting gun violence, pouring millions into groups pushing for more restrictive gun laws. Bloomberg served as mayor of New York, the largest U.S. city, from 2002 to 2013.

Bloomberg had filed paperwork on Thursday with the U.S. Federal Election Commission to run for president. He already had filed paperwork to be eligible for the Democratic primary in Alabama and four other states with early deadlines for ballot qualification.

He announced earlier in November a $100 million online ad campaign targeting Trump in four battleground states. The advertising blitz drew criticism from some rival Democratic candidates.

"I don't have that money ... but I have actually gotten things done in the gridlock of Washington," U.S. Senator Amy Klobuchar said on ABC's "This Week" program on Sunday.

Bloomberg will face significant disadvantages because of his late start, which means he will be playing catch-up with rivals who have been putting together campaign staffs for months ahead of the state-by-state battle for the Democratic nomi-

Bloomberg announced earlier in November a $100 million online ad campaign targeting Trump in four battleground states. The advertising blitz drew criticism from some rival Democratic candidates.

To counter that, he plans to pursue the unorthodox strategy of skipping the four states with early nominating contests in February, beginning on Feb. 3 in Iowa, and focus primarily on the states that hold primaries and caucuses starting on so-called Super Tuesday on March 3.

No winning presidential contender has ever pursued a similar strategy.

Bloomberg already has come under fire from liberal critics who say he would be the wrong choice for a Democratic Party turning against corporate money in politics and dedicated to ending income inequality in America.

He also is certain to face renewed scrutiny over his record as New York's mayor and as the head of his own media company for nearly 40 years.

He apologized this month for New York's "stop and frisk" policy that allowed police to stop and search people on the street, which was decried as racist for overwhelmingly targeting black men. Black voters are a critical Democratic voting bloc.

Bloomberg also has been mocked by some critics for attempting to ban sodas sold in cups larger than 16 ounces in an effort to reduce sugar consumption in the interest of public health amid high rates of obesity in the United States. The proposal was ultimately struck down by New York courts.

At 77, he will be the second-oldest candidate among the Democrats in a race in which age has been an issue as the party debates whether it is time for a new generation of leadership. Sanders, who took time off from the campaign trail after a heart attack in October, is the oldest at 78. REUTERS

NYC expands pedestrian space around Rockefeller Center

The goal is to keep the people safe while visiting the famous Rockefeller Christmas tree.

New Yorkers and tourists alike can rejoice over extra elbow room this holiday season as they visit the iconic Rockefeller Christmas Tree in Midtown.

Mayor de Blasio on Friday announced a temporary expansion of the pedestrian space around Rockefeller Center and Radio City Music Hall to help ensure the safety and comfort of visitors at the famous holiday tree.

"The Rockefeller Center Christmas Tree is New York City's crown jewel during the holidays, and we're always excited to welcome the world to see it-but when the world descends on Rockefeller Center for a month on end, additional tools are clearly necessary so that our Vision Zero agenda stays in place," de Blasio said. "This historic announcement pedestrian-izing Rockefeller Center will keep holiday revelers safe while ensuring minimal disruption to the rest of the life of the city."

Officials will be using moveable barriers to help with partial or full street closures to help with foot

Rockefeller Center

The new measures that went into effect on Friday include:

- Side Street Closures: 49th and 50th Streets between 5th and 6th Avenues are open to pedestrians alone during the most congested hours.
- By default, these streets are closed between 2 p.m. and midnight from Monday to Thursday, 1 p.m. and midnight on Friday, and 10 a.m. and midnight on Saturdays and Sundays.
- 5th Avenue: Movable barriers are placed on the east and west sides of the streets on 5th Avenue between 48th and 52nd Streets, eliminating a lane of traffic on each side of the avenue to create more pedestrian space. Additionally, there are no turns on 47th, 49th or 51st Streets.
- Barriers are in place between 5 p.m. or earlier and midnight during the week, and between noon or earlier on weekends.
- 6th Avenue: Movable barriers may be placed on the east side of the street on 6th Avenue between 48th and 52nd Streets, eliminating one lane of traffic to create more pedestrian space.
- 6th Avenue will be monitored and barriers will be put in place or removed depending on crowd conditions. Buses: MTA buses will bypass 48th to 52nd Streets.

Besides the barriers, NYPD and Department of Transportation (DOT) employees will be monitoring the area year-round. Chief of Department Terence Monahan said in a press release, "Due to collaboration with the Department of Transportation and our ability to adjust assets on the street in real-time, NY's Finest will ensure the safety of those enjoying the holiday season in the Big Apple while minimizing vehicular congestion."

Teenage subway surfer killed in Queens

A young teenage boy is being mourned following an accident that resulted in his death within the New York subway system.

The MTA revealed someone was killed around 9:00 p.m. on Saturday night at the Queensboro Plaza station. The subway system's verified Twitter account stated that the person was "surfing" on the subway cars.

It was unclear what the teenager was doing at the time they were fatally struck, but an MTA employee told the New York Post "he was either climbing up or down between cars.

The NYPD opened an investigation immediately after the death. Police sources told CBS that the person was a teenager who was found by MTA employ-ees. The teenager was pronounced dead at the Train service for the 7 and N lines was temporarily affected by the accident, with both lines bypassing the Queensboro Plaza station for several hours.

This is not the first time the act of subway surfing has been in the news in New York recently. Earlier this week, a video spread across social media showing two men riding atop a 7 train in Jackson Heights. That incident led to a swath of delays across the system, though it's not clear if the men were apprehended by police.

Pope Francis arrives to conduct a Holy Mass at Nagasaki Baseball Stadium in

Pope urges abolition of nuclear weapons at Japan's ground zeros

Pope Francis visited sites in Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Pope Francis brought his campaign to abolish nuclear weapons to the only two cities ever hit by atomic bombs on Sunday, calling their possession indefensibly perverse and immoral and their use a crime against mankind and nature.

Francis visited the ground zeros of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, both seared in the world's collective consciousness after the bombs dropped there by the United States three days apart in August 1945 in an effort to end World

"Here, in an incandescent burst of lightning and fire, so many men and women, so many dreams and hopes, disappeared, leaving behind only shadows and silence," Francis said at Hiroshima's Peace Memorial after standing in silent prayer and listening to a harrowing account by a survivor.

Yoshiko Kajimoto, who was 14 at the time, recalled "people walking side by side like ghosts, people whose whole body was so burnt that I could not tell the difference between men and women, their hair standing on end, their faces swollen to double size, their lips hanging loose, with both hands held out with burnt skin hanging from them."

"No one in this world can imagine such a scene of hell," she said.

More than 100,000 people died instantly in the twin attacks and about 400,000 others died in subsequent months, years and decades of radiation sickness or illnesses.

"With deep conviction I wish once more to declare that the use of atomic energy for purposes of war is today, more than ever, a crime not only against the dignity of human beings but against any possible future for our common home," the pope said in Hiroshima. The use of atomic energy for purposes of war is immoral, so too the possession of nuclear weapons is immoral, as I already said two years ago."

More than 100,000 people died instantly in the twin attacks and about 400,000 others died in subsequent months, years and decades of radiation sickness or illnesses.

While his words in Hiroshima struck emotional, almost poetic notes, earlier in Nagasaki he issued direct denunciations and demands.

He restated his support for a 2017 treaty to ban nuclear weapons that was agreed by nearly two-thirds of U.N. members but opposed by big nuclear powers who say it could undermine nuclear deterrence, which they credit with averting conventional war.

"Our world is marked by a perverse dichotomy that tries to defend and ensure stability and peace through a sense of security sustained by a mentality of fear and mistrust," he said in a somber voice, amid driving rain and strong wind.

Resources spent on the "arms race" should be used for development and protection of the environment, Francis said in Nagasaki.

"In a world where millions of children and families live in inhumane conditions, the money squandered and the fortunes made through the manufacture, upgrading, maintenance and sale of ever more destructive weapons, are an affront crying out to heaven," he said.

Last August, the United States pulled out of one landmark strategic arms accord, the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty (INF), citing violations by Russia that Moscow denies.

Nuclear experts said it also appeared doubtful that agreement on a fullfledged replacement for the New START nuclear arms control treaty between Russia and the United States will be in place before it expires in February 2021.

In Nagasaki, the pope delivered his appeal standing near a large print of a famous photograph titled "The Boy Standing by the Crematory" taken by an American soldier shortly after the blast. It shows a Japanese boy taking his dead younger brother to be cremated. REUTERS

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers "Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis..."

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news. Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD medic has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

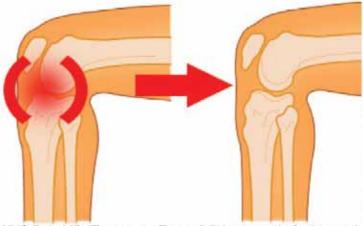

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- · Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- · Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- · Genicular Knee Block
- · And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action... step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Record turnout in Hong Kong local elections amid calls for full democracy

The turnout rate was a staggering 71 percent.

Hong Kong residents turned out in huge numbers on Sunday to vote in district council elections seen as a test of support for chief executive Car-Lam following six months of pro-democracy protests, and polling took place with no major disruptions.

Electoral affairs chief Barnabus Fung said at least 2.94 million people voted, a turnout rate of more than 71% and a record showing that appeared to have been spurred by the political turmoil. About 1.47 million voted in the last district elections four vears ago.

First results began to trickle in after midnight.

Jimmy Sham, a candidate for the Civil Human Rights Front, which organised some of the antigovernment rallies, won his contest and said the voter numbers should be a sign to the government that it should listen to their voices.

"This election is special because it is a formal confrontation between proestablishment and prodemocracy parties after months of unrest caused by the misstep of government," he told Reuters, standing on crutches weeks after he was beaten by men with hammers during a rally in October.

Casting her ballot, the Beijing-backed Lam pledged that her government would listen "more intensively" to the views of district councils in the Chinese-ruled city.

"I hope this kind of stability and calm is not only for today's election, but to show that everyone does not want Hong Kong to fall into a chaotic situation again," Lam said.

The district councils control some spending and decide issues such as recycling and public health. A record 1,104 candidates were vying for 452 seats.

If the pro-democracy campaigners gain control, they could secure six seats on Hong Kong's semirepresentative Legislative Council and 117 seats on the 1,200-member panel that selects its chief execu-

Iran's Guards call for 'maximum punishment' of fuel unrest leaders

Amnesty International has placed the death count at a minimum of 115.

A senior commander of Iran's Revolutionary Guards has urged the country's judiciary mete out harsh sentences to what he described as "mercenaries" involved in protests against a fuel price hike last week, the judiciary's Mizan news site reported.

"We caught all the mercenaries who openly confessed they were doing mercenary work for America and, God willing, the judicial system of the country will give them maximum punishments," Rear Admiral Ali Fadavi, a deputy Guards commander, was quoted as saying.

Iran's clerical rulers ve blamed "thugs" have blamed "thugs" linked to exiles and foreign foes - the United States, Israel and Saudi Arabia - for stirring up unrest which has led to some of the worst violence in the country in a decade.

Fadavi said several people were killed during the protests after being shot at with a handgun from a close distance behind themselves, which he said indicated the shooters were among the crowds.

Rights group Amnesty International said in a release earlier this week that security forces shot into crowds of protesters from rooftops and, in one case, from a helicopter.

Amnesty said at least 115 people have died in the unrest. Iran has rejected death toll figures as 'speculative."

Iranian authorities have said about 1,000 demonstrators have been arrested.

The Center for Human Rights in Iran, a New Yorkbased advocacy group, said on its website that a tally based on official figures and credible reports suggested that "a minimum of 2,755 people have been arrested with the actual minimum number likely being closer to

With tensions over the gasoline price increases remaining high, some 50 lawmakers have submitted a proposal to parliament that could ultimately lead to the impeachment of Iran's Oil Minister Bijan Zanganeh.

"Parliament's presiding board has received the censure motion against Zanganeh over various issues including ... gasoline price hikes," said a member of the presiding board Ahmad Amirabadi Farahani, the website of Iran's Young Journalists Club reported.

It was not immediately clear whether the lawmakers would go through with the motion or eventually withdraw it as has happened in some previ-OUS CASES. REUTERS

Topless protesters crash pro-Franco demonstration in Madrid

Topless female activists on Sunday interrupted a demonstration in Madrid commemorating the legacy of Spain's former dictator Francisco Franco, 44 years after his death.

Chanting "for fascism no honor and no glory," half a dozen women from feminist group Femen, with the same slogan emblazoned across their chests, burst into the crowd when it reached Madrid's Plaza de Oriente. They were quickly removed by police.

Hundreds of Franco supporters turned out for the march, which is held around Nov. 20 every year to mark the anniversary of the dictator's death.

Some demonstrators carried flags with Francoist icons and held an arm aloft in the fascist salute.

The leader of Spain's fascist Falange party, Jesus Muñoz, said they were marching against the "desecration" of Franco's remains, which were exhumed in October, and against Spain's historicalmemory law which recognizes those who suffered during the dictatorship.

"Now they start desecrating tombs, this is not going to be like 1936 (when the Spanish Civil War started) but much worse," he said.

Franco, who ruled Spain from 1939 until his death in 1975, and his nationalist legacy still divide Spain and its political parties.

In October, Spanish authorities transferred the dictator's remains from a lavish state mausoleum outside Madrid where he was buried in 1975 to a private cemetery, provoking strong reactions from across the political spectrum. REUTERS

Senior Democrat says next step underway in Trump impeachment probe

Democratic U.S. lawbegun makers have the next step in the impeachment inquiry into President Donald Trump writing a report on their findings - but still could take more testimony and hold additional hearings, the chairman of the House of Representatives Intelligence Committee said on Sunday.

Representative Adam Schiff, whose commit-tee is leading the inquiry that threatens Trump's presidency, said the panel has started work on the report after two weeks of public hearings with testimony from current and former U.S. officials. The panel has held five public hearings and has no more scheduled.

The report is an important step toward a possible vote in the Democratic-led House on articles of impeachment - formal charges - against the Republican president. If those are approved, the Senate, controlled by Republicans, would then hold a trial on ting more documents all the time. So that investigative work is being done, Schiff said on CNN's "State of the Union."

"What we're not prepared to do is wait months and months while the administration plays a game of 'rope a dope' in an effort to try to stall. We're not willing to go down that road." Schiff said.

Democrats have accused Trump of abusing his power by pressuring a vulnerable U.S. ally to interfere in an American election by digging up dirt on his domestic political opponents. Biden is a leading contender for the Democratic nomination to face Trump in the November 2020 election.

With the first party nominating contests set for February, "there's an urgency to make sure the election and the ballot box integrity," Demohave cratic Representative Eric Swalwell, an Intelligence Committee member, told the "Fox News Sunday" program.

whether to convict Trump and remove him from office. Republicans have shown little inclination toward removing Trump, who is seeking re-election in 2020.

The inquiry centers on a July 25 phone call in which Trump asked Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky to investigate political rival Joe Biden and his son Hunter Biden as well as a discredited conspiracy theory promoted by Trump that Ukraine, not Russia, interfered in the 2016 U.S. presidential election. Hunter Biden had worked for Burisma, a Ukrainian energy company.

Trump's administration has refused to provide documents requested House Democrats blocked witnesses from testifying, including Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, former national security adviser John Bolton and acting White House Chief of Staff Mick Mulvaney. The president's personal lawyer, Rudy Giuliani, also has refused to cooperate.

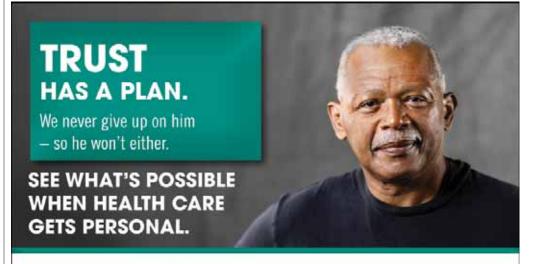

Bolton and other officials have sought court rulings on whether they should comply with a congressional subpoena or honor the Trump administration's order not to testify, a process that could take months.

Trump has said he did nothing wrong, and dismisses the inquiry as politically motivated. Many Republicans in Congress have rallied to his defense and assailed the Democrats leading the inquiry claiming there were "no impeachable offenses."

Wrap it up with a bow on top

Carson Kressley talks new holiday competition series, "Wrap Battle."

MOLLY GIVEN

There are a lot of things that are inevitable when it comes to the holidays: festive music, bright lights, plenty of cookies and a lot of gift wrapping. Some people aren't exactly fans of gift wrapping, but others really go all out for the holiday tradition and on Freeform's new competition series, "Wrap Battle," audiences will get to see some stellar showcases of the latter. But the new show is also meant to inspire those who maybe aren't too keen on gift wrapping to come up with their own personal touch, which is also what judge Carson Kressley loves the most about it. Being a jack of all trades with all things design, it makes sense for Kressley to be on the panel and he truly fits the bill when it comes to loving everything about the holidays as well. Kressley sat down with Metro to chat about the show, his judging style and what audiences can expect to be inspired from on "Wrap Battle."

What first interested you to be a judge on "Wrap

Oh gosh, well I love to work and it was a job so I was immediately on board, but most importantly I love anything that has to do with style and design. I think whether you're wrapping a gift or you're dressing a person for an event or you're creating a look for a runway, it's really all the same. It's about proportion, color, making it exciting and adding your own personal stamp to it. It was really in my wheelhouse, and I also happen to really love reality competition shows - but also I'm the person who puts their Christmas tree up the day after Halloween and I've always loved the holidays since I was a little kid. Just creating beautiful gift wrapping and decorating, I think it's just one of those things that I've always really enjoyed.

What does each episode of "Wrap Battle" consist

Well, we have the most amazing gift wrappers from all over the United States and they really are so talented. Some of them run businesses where all they do is professional gift wrapping and some are more of interior design or stylists, so it's a wide variety. Each episode there are two challenges and there really are a lot of opportunities for outof-the-box and interesting gift wrapping techniques. They are wrapping the most outrageous things or sometimes they have to use unusual materials, so it's a little bit like "Project Runway" in the sense that they're not just making a dress but sometimes they are making it out of something really unique. It's always something interesting and intriguing and you'll think 'Wow, who would have thought of that?' It keeps the show quite fresh and fun. Some of the challenges are very big and over-the-top and will be very exciting, but some of the other ones will give people lots of ideas on how to create beautiful presentations themselves for the holidays, so that's a really fun part as well. I love that people can really watch and be inspired and learn stuff - I learned so much just from watching the show, and I loved it.

What were you looking for when you were judging and was it ever difficult to choose a winner?

It's always difficult because you get to fall in love with the contestants on the show, and I always want everybody to do really well. So that part is hard. But my job as a judge, whether that's being a judge on "Wrap Battle" or "RuPaul's Drag Race" or the Miss Universe pageant - whatever it is, our job as judges is to ask, 'Did you meet the criteria of the challenge and did you do the best job?' So in that way, it's not that difficult. I think what I always look for is someone who's executed all of the components of the challenge but did it in their own personal way so that it has their stamp on it and you know it's their work. That goes for any kind of artist. That's always the most successful endeavor, when you do a great job but it's also very personal and everyone knows that it's your work.

Can audiences expect any kind of twists or curveballs with "Wrap Battle?"

There's definitely a lot of different switch-ups and there are some team challenges - just some challenges that I think contestants really had no idea were coming their way. Sometimes even us at judges saw what was happening and went, 'Wow that's incredible.' There is always a twist in every episode that keeps our contestants on their

How was it working with the other judges and host on "Wrap Battle?" Sheryl Underwood is the host and one of our judges and then Wanda Wen has this wonderful and amazing gift wrapping business here in LA, and she is kind of the gift wrapper to the stars. Sheryl is so funny and getting to do a show with her was wonderful because we were all just so entertained on set every day, and Wanda just has so much knowledge in the art of Japanese giftwrapping, gift wrapping in Europe and different presentations, so she was so inspirational. We also have incredible guest judges that come through

What do you love the most about "Wrap Battle?"

I think ultimately it's a holiday show, and since I love the holidays, that adds a little extra glitter and sparkle for me. But I think I love this type of show because I love the creativity. Using materials, and packaging and just the things you would never expect — I love to see how people create, I appreciate that kind of artistry. I don't think a lot of shows on TV focus on creativity in this way and that's what I found so entertaining and inspiring about "Wrap Battle."

"Wrap Battle" premieres Nov. 25 on Freeform.

Metro chatted with the Irish actor about his role in the American crime drama television series Mr. Mercedes, based on the Bill Hodges novel trilogy by Stephen King.

LAURA LÓPEZ MWN

Stephen King's trilogy of novels about detective Bill Hodges (Brendan Gleeson) has inspired Mr. Mercedes, the series which tells the story of a retired detective tormented by one of the cases he couldn't solve.

A man, nicknamed Mr. Mercedes, ran over 16 people who were lined up to seek for a job. Not only Hodges is tormented by the idea of never having solved the crime, but a hacker starts to contact him and claims to be the real Mr. Mercedes. What begins as a fight between the two soon becomes a much bigger problem where issues such as our relationship with technology and how to get out of its control are discussed, as well as the different fears that take away our sleep at night.

Suspense, police drama and Stephen King's exquisite narrative combined with the talent of developer David Kelley are complemented by the performance of Gleeson, who many remember for roles in Harry Potter (Alastor Moody), Gangs of New York (Walter 'Monk' McGinn) and Braveheart (Hamish Campbell).

Bill is a great detective, but he is forced to retire. Did you rely on anyone in particular to create the character?

Well, the character was already well created in the book, and I think they did a wonderful job with the script. One change we implemented is that we decided to make him Irish because I am Irish myself. I identify with him because of the way he grew up. That decision made the character have several things in common with me and I was able to start from there, which made his creation much

You said that you first saw films based on Stephen King's novels rather than his books.

Did that influence how you interpreted the writer's ideas?

It's interesting because at one point you collect so much information about the character that you even begin to understand his instincts and act on them. There are certain things that you find in the script that seem very typical of the character, but then it may seem on screen that he would have done things differently, and that's a challenge. It's a matter of collaboration between director, writer, and Technology and how it can get out of control is one of the central themes of the series.

I think the series tries not to ignore a theme that can definitely concerns many people and affects them. We wanted to show the consequences of violence that comes from what can happen from the misuse of technology. From my point of view, even if you want to solve some situations sometimes you just have to understand that everyone is simply living their life as they think they should. And that is beyond our control.

METRO.US

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 2019

Of all the elements used to create suspense and terror, what terrifies you most?

I think in the long run what really scares us is not the external threat and the things that we see outside, but those that hunt us from within. These are the situations that frighten us the most, allowing violence and frustration to take hold of us and become obsessions.

What do you say to people on the street when they ask if you've already caught the bad guy in the story?

["Laughs"] Yeah, I get that a lot. We're still shooting, and in the story, everything is a consequence of something. So, there's always a struggle that doesn't seem to end. I haven't caught the guy, that's what I answer. ["Laughs"]

Could you tell us something about the last season of Mr. Mercedes?

I think you'll see some very interesting moments and you'll see several things resolved. [Laughs]

The actor stars in the new Todd Haynes film "Dark Waters" alongside Mark Ruffalo.

PAT KING

When I meet with Tim Robbins, both of our minds couldn't be further from work obligations that day. It was the first day of the impeachment hearings, after all, and when I meet him in the press suite of a hotel alongside Central Park we both do one last check on our phones before we begin to talk about his latest role. The film is "Dark Waters," directed by Todd Haynes, which follows the real-life story of lawyer Robert Billot (played by Mark Ruffalo) and his tireless fight against a chemical company and their negligent practices that lead to introducing cancer-causing synthetic compounds (PFOA) into our water with the production of Teflon products. As unintentional as it seemed, given our minds were both consumed by politics at that moment, it was a pretty good way to transition into talking about the film.

Robbins' character,
Tom Terp, of the Cincinnati law firm Taft
Stettinius & Hollister
LLP, oversaw Billot's case against DuPont.
Even though the firm had represented the chemical giant and other big corporations, Terp could look past the dollar signs attached to those clients and allowed the firm to fight on the side of humanity against evil corporate interests. It was Terp's immense bravery that drew Robbins to the role in the first place.

"I wanted to do the movie because I support this story and Todd Haynes, Mark Ruffalo and most importantly, Rob Billot. I want to believe, well I know people like this exist. I met the guy, Tom Terp. I hope that maybe this film will inspire people like Tom Terp to put their foot down and make a moral stand. And understand that profit is not always what should be driving us. That there are other important things to humanity than how wealthy we are. That one man can change things," says Robbins.

"Tom Terp," he adds,
"by allowing the resources of that powerful law firm to this effort probably saved a lot of lives. I wish there were more people like that. I really do. I want to believe there are. It's tough though. How many people are willing to stand up for what they believe and risk their livelihood? Their safety, perhaps their life? It takes courage. Part of that courage is the courage to not be working in a job that's morally reprehensible. You've got to pay the bills, the rent, schools, [etc.] ... there's a lot of pressure on people to make a living. How much power given the constraints of the cost of living and what you need to survive, how many people have the luxury of living a moral life? That should never be a luxury, right? It should be a bedrock principle of who we are as human beings. We have an economic system that doesn't allow that."

One thing that becomes abundantly clear while watching "Dark Waters" is how the EPA had never accounted for the kinds of industrial waste that companies like DuPont had been dumping for years and the willingness of these corporations to pay large amounts in order to keep the agency from looking into their practices to deeply. The inability of our regulatory agencies to keep our people safe has been something that has saddened and angered Robbins throughout his life. And after seeing that a recently leaked memo from the EPA, published in the New York Times, showing the agency's plans to limit the amount of scientific and medical research that can be used in their future restrictions on business, well, he was absolutely furious.

"Can you f-cking believe that?" Robbins asked in disbelief. "A government agency that was set up to protect the citizens of the United States is now working on the side of industry to get rid of any science that has been conducted that was protecting people from pollutants. Including Rob's study that was in the film, that blood-work study that took 10 years to do, they want to throw it out. Why do they want to throw it out? Because DuPont is going to have to pay a lot of money. And DuPont is telling the EPA they want this done."

In a sense, getting the word out against these seemingly unbeatable corporations that have more than enough money to tie up the courts should be our civic duty. Robbins feels that this movie is doing its part to hold them accountable and hopes that more are made in the future. Because once it is on the screen, the conversation leaves the theater and hits the streets.

"I'm hopeful for movies like 'Dark Waters," he says. "I'm hopeful for stories that are told that tell the truth and spread more information across ideological lines. I think we're so tribalized right now and I don't think people are listening to each other. It's a dangerous place to be. I don't think the media helps very much. There's a lot of important information that's not being reported on because they're so obsessively on one topic."

Robbins and I spent a great deal of time working each other up into a frenzy. At one moment, we laughed in disbelief. In another, we were confused by our optimism. Could anything actually change for the better? Then we both said goodbye and opened our phones to dial back in with what was happening in the world outside.

Can This Medical Technology Possibly Eliminate Or Greatly Reduce Even The Most Severe Back Pain... Almost Instantly?

The Advanced Medical Treatment Every Back & Neck Pain Sufferer Needs To Know -No Matter How Bad The Pain Is Or How Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NYC Pain MD is a medical help every case of back pain. clinic with two locations in New York City that has made a name for itself by treating the worst cases of back or neck pain.

Here is what every back and neck pain sufferer who has failed to respond to other treatments and does not want surgery should know about one of the best treatment options available today for severe back and neck pain including when, why and where you should consider this treatment to get maximum results.

If you suffer with back, neck or nerve pain, you have probably already tried many treatments... especially countless medications.

Experienced doctors understand that even though pain medications such as antiinflammatory pain pills are part of the recommended early treatment plan for back pain... they are rarely the answer.

In most cases they have minimal, short term results (if any) and have a laundry list of potential side effects. Some being serious and even life threatening.

Are there any better options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there is very good option to help relieve the pain.

An option that a lot of back and neck pain sufferers may have never heard of before.

Before we get into these treatments, please understand

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated the worst cases of back pain. Patients travel from all over to be treated at one of their clinics for all sorts of joint and muscle pain because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover is a REAL medical treatment. Not some miracle cure you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no one treatment that will And we cannot guarantee this treatment will work for you. But this treatment has already helped countless back and neck pain sufferers who had given up hope. I bet many just like you.

What is this treatment? It's called...

Radiofrequency Neurotomy

"Radiofreguncy Neurotomy" is often referred to as RF for short.

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your spine and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

Radiofrequency waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced imaging to "block" procedures Two performed. First, a test, diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, the Radio Frequency Neurotomy is scheduled and performed for longer term

What Results Can You Expect?

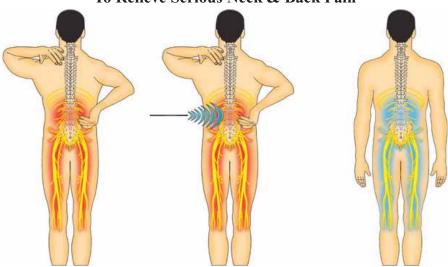

Like all real medical procedures... results vary for individual patients. No good and ethical doctor would guarantee any exact results for any procedure... that's just not how things work and it would be less than honest.

That's being said, it is not uncommon for patients to get complete, if not significant relief of their pain shortly after the treatment.

How Long Do The Results Last?

This procedure "blocks" the nerves pain signals... it does not destroy them. Therefore, the results are safe but not completely permanent. But, many patients get relief for 6 months... 12 months.... 18 months for some and some even longer. The great news is another procedure can be safely preformed for more relief if necessary.

Advanced Treatment Uses Radio Frequencies To Relieve Serious Neck & Back Pain

Science rescues back & neck pain sufferers?: Radio Frequency Waves are used to block the nerve supply to the painful area and may alleviate pain and restore function to many.

While we cannot claim this is a complete "permanent cure" but... it can be a god-send for so many who were in constant Really... what would it be worth it to you could get out of pain for long enough so you could start enjoying your everyday life again?

Would it be worth it to be able to finally get a good nights sleep again?

How about being able to go for a simple walk or just do your basic daily chores without worrying about so much pain?

Is It Safe?

Yes. This procedure has been done countless times and continues to have an excellent safety record. It is minimally invasive and is not surgical.

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as antiinflammatory pain medication and physical therapy do not offer good enough results.

RF has also been found effective AFTER back surgery when patient's still feel pain.

The pain after a failed back surgery can be debilitating for some and this procedure may be the only thing that helps give vou relief.

In Pain And The "X" Factor

Here is the "X" factor many do not consider that might be the difference between you getting the best possible treatment or not.

Many experts suggest choosing a medical clinic that offers all these treatments and has the proper, most advanced technology all under one roof without the need for a surgical center or hospital.

Major Savings In Time And Costs Of Care?

NYC Pain MD's method allows you to avoid expensive hospital or out patient surgicenter facility fees which often run 3 to 4 times the cost of the procedure itself. And you don't have to go through the huge stress and time consuming process of going all over the city to outside centers. All the NYC Pain MD treatments can be done in out in-office procedure suites saving you stress, time and dollars. NYC Pain MD believes this additional "X" factor is one of the reasons so many back pain sufferers travel from all over to be treated at one of their advanced medical clinics.

Jason Garrett has reportedly listed the Giants as a preferred destination if he's let go by the Cowboys. GETTY IMAGES

Jason Garrett: Next Giants head coach?

The Giants and the head coach of their biggest rival have a reported mutual interest, per reports.

If the New York Giants are done with Pat Shurmur, they might turn to one of their largest enemies to right the ship.

NFL Network's Ian Rapoport on Sunday revealed there is mutual interest between the Giants and current Dallas Cowboys head coach Jason Garrett.

Rapoport said the Giants "have emerged as a real and legitimate, potential landing spot" for Garrett while adding the Cowboys' coach's "preferred destination" will be MetLife Stadium.

Garrett is in the final year of his contract with the Cowboys after a decade-long tenure.

He has accrued the second-most wins in franchise history behind the legendary Tom Landry. However, he has only made the playoffs three times and has never advanced beyond the Divisional Round.

His inability to deliver the Cowboys their first Super Bowl title since 1996 has long put his career in Dallas in doubt — especially with the unpredictability of owner Jerry Jones — but it is reaching a fever pitch during the second half of the 2019 season.

A report from October by CBS Sports' Jason La Canfora claimed that Garrett was not in danger of being fired, but playoff success was imperative for him to return to the team in 2020.

The Cowboys started the season 3-0, but have gone 3-4 since then to make their lead in the NFC East a tight one over the Philadelphia Eagles.

If the Eagles — who have an easier schedule down the stretch — catch the Cowboys for the division and they either miss the playoffs or are bounced early again, Garrett's days in Jerry World are likely numbered.

There has been no indication from the Giants that they want to make a coaching change at this time. SNY's Ralph Vacchiano reported as recently as Nov. 11 that the Giants had "no immediate plans for ownership to either fire Shurmur or to force any staff shakeup... at least until the end of the season."

Shurmur has done little to instill confidence that he is the guy to lead this team. He's 7-19 in his 26 career games with the Giants — which has been a poorly put-together team assembled by GM Dave Gettleman.

Garrett's potential availability could coax Giants co-owners John Mara and Steve Tisch to show Shurmur the door, regardless. Rapoport added that the Giants would have fired former head coach Tom Coughlin in 2014 if Garrett was available for the taking.

The 53-year-old Garrett spent four seasons with the Giants as a backup quarterback from 2000-2003.

Giants lose to Bears, drop 7th straight

Kicking woes, defensive struggles, shambolic playcalling dooms Giants.

JOE PANTORNO

The New York Giants' miserable stretch continued on Sunday, losing their seventh straight game in a 19-14 defeat to the struggling Chicago Bears at Soldier Field.

Against one of the league's worst offenses, defensive coordinator James Bettcher's unit allowed the Bears to gain 338 yards of total offense, eclipsing the 300-yard mark for just the second time this season.

Quarterback Mitchell Trubisky - who was averaging a league-low 176 pass yards per game this season — threw for 276 yards and a touchdown in

Meanwhile, the Giants offense generated next to nothing against a stout Bears defense, though two missed field goals from Aldrick Rosas proved to be the vital miscues.

An uneventful first half finally saw some action in the second quarter after a 12-yard punt return by Golden Tate gave the Giants possession past midfield (Chicago's 42-yard-line) for the first time of the day. A 22-yard reverse to Sterling Shepard — playing in his first game since Week 5 after issues with concussions - put the Giants in the red zone on the very next play.

It took five plays and a defensive holding penalty, but the Giants managed to find the end zone with 7:38 left in the second quarter when Daniel Jones hit reserve tight end Kaden Smith for his firstcareer touchdown reception and the first points of

It was the high point of Jones' day as he was held to just 150 yards passing while completing just 58.3 percent of his passes.

Saquon Barkley was invisible yet again, posting just 59 yards on 17 carries.

The Giants left points on the table on their next two drives when Rosas blew a pair of field goals.

Jabrill Peppers' 42-yard punt return put the Giants on Chicago's 29-yardline only for Shurmur's offense to go three-and-out.

The combination of the Giants' defense and Bears' dysfunction gave the Giants the ball past midfield yet again. Following a Chicago threeand-out, Bears punter Pat O'Donnell shanked his punt for just 13 yards.

New York would drive to the Chicago 25, but Shurmur's decision to call a toss play on a 3rd-&-1 was costly as Barkley was well short of the first down, leading to Rosas' second-straight field goal.

What could have been at least a 13-0 lead at the half was just a 7-3 advantage when the Bears managed to nab a field goal in the final seconds of the second quarter.

Chicago quickly made the Giants pay for their opportunities missed and took the lead with their first possession of the third quarter when Trubisky hit Allen Robinson for a 32-yard touch-

The Bears started at their own 40-yard-line after Rosas sent the opening kickoff out of bounds.

Robinson would torch the Giants for 49 yards on the very next drive to get the Bears out of dangerous territory when they were pinned back at their six-yard-line by a Riley

They would get down to the Giants' six-yard-line, but New York's defense held firm to limit the damage to a field goal.

But things would only get worse for the Giants when Jones was stripsacked by Khalil Mack to give the Bears possession on the four-yard-line.

It was Jones' leagueleading 10th lost fumble of the season.

Trubisky found paydirt with another red-zone opportunity with a twoyard touchdown scramble for his first rushing score since November 2018.

Out of nothing, the Giants generated a 97-yard drive to get within five with four minutes remaining. This after they had -1 yards of total offense in the second half.

Jones evaded pressure anď hit Golden Tate on a 4th-&-18 from the Bears 23 to make it interesting in the final moments - especially after the Giants stopped the Bears to get the ball back on their 5-yard-line with 3:37 to go.

They could only get to their 35-yard-line, however, as they turned it over on downs to ice the game.

Jets dominate Raiders to extend winning streak to 3 games

In a matter of three weeks, the New York Jets have turned into an offensive juggernaut.

For a third-straight game, Sam Darnold and Gang Green put up a 34-point effort in a 34-3 dominating victory over the Oakland Raiders.

The Jets are on their first three-game winning streak since Weeks 3-5 of the 2017 season.

Darnold had another strong outing in what arguably was his best game of the year - completing 20-of-29 passes for 315 yards and two touchdowns.

It was the Jets defense, though, that completely neutralized the Raiders.

They would spot Oakland an opening field goal, but that was all.

Gregg Williams' unit held the Raiders to 207 total yards on the day while starting quarterback Derek Carr was pulled during the second half following a 127-yard effort.

The Jets' offense did the rest of the work.

They looked as though they scored a touchdown on their first drive for a fifth-consecutive

But a Demaryius Thomas eight-yard touchdown reception was wiped out by a reviewed offensive pass interference call, forcing the Jets to settle for a tying Darnold wouldn't squander secondstraight opportunity in Oakland's red zone when he took a keeper four yards into the end zone to put the Jets up 10-3. It was another long, methodical drive as the Jets went 96 yards on 12 plays in over seven minutes.

The Jets would eat up 50 yards on their next drive to get back into the red zone, but Darnold was sacked by Maxx Crosby to stymie the drive, leading to Sam Ficken's second field goal of the day with three minutes left in the first half.

Darnold's kept rolling into the second half, though, when a Ryan Griffin one-yard touchdown put the Jets up 17 two minutes into the third. The easy score was set up by a quick pass from Darnold to Braxton Berrios that the receiver broke open for 69 yards down to the Raiders' 1-yard-line.

It was the Jets' longest non-touchdown play from scrimmage in six years.

Down 20-3, Raiders head coach Jon Gruden went into desperation mode to try and get his team back in the game, but it only made the deficit worse.

Ingold stopped on a 4th-&-1 on the Raiders' 39-yard-line to give the Jets supreme field position. It took them only four plays to make it 27-3 when Darnold hit Anderson for a one-yard

The Jets defense got in on the fun when Brian Poole reeled in a onehanded interception off a Carr attempt and returned it 15 yards for a touchdown to keep the rout going. JOE PANTORNO
